Oral hygiene methods have significantly advanced as our understanding of the factors influencing oral health has improved. One of the notable advancements is the ITOP (Individually Trained Oral Prophylaxis) philosophy, which emphasizes personalized training in oral prophylaxis. Unlike traditional approaches, ITOP is tailored to the individual needs of each person, ensuring that they receive the most effective and appropriate oral care techniques. This philosophy underscores the importance of personalized education, as everyone's oral hygiene needs can vary widely.

The ITOP workshop integrates the use of efficient tools with comprehensive knowledge of cleaning techniques. Participants are taught how to use these tools correctly and effectively, maximizing their oral health benefits. The workshop aims to provide participants with the skills and understanding necessary to maintain optimal oral hygiene independently. By combining advanced tools with thorough, individualized training, the ITOP approach offers a superior method for achieving and maintaining excellent oral health.

BLS AND IV THERAPY

Date: 27/11/2018- 29/11/2018

No. of participants : 20

Basic Life Support (BLS) is a critical form of care provided to patients experiencing severe emergencies such as respiratory arrest, cardiac arrest, or airway obstruction. BLS encompasses a range of essential psychomotor skills, including performing Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR), which is vital for sustaining life until advanced medical help arrives. To ensure that more individuals are equipped with these life-saving skills, we organized a comprehensive BLS training program. This program aimed to educate participants on the fundamental principles and techniques of BLS.

Throughout the training, participants learned how to assess and respond to life-threatening situations effectively. They received hands-on practice in performing CPR, managing airway obstructions, and using automated external defibrillators (AEDs). The program also emphasized the importance of quick decision-making and proper technique in emergency scenarios. By providing this education, we aim to empower participants with the confidence and competence to act swiftly and efficiently in critical situations, ultimately saving lives and improving patient outcomes.

IMPORTANCE OF MODERN DAY ORAL HYGIENE AIDS IN PERIODONTOLOGY

Date: 05-08-2019

No. of Participants: 40

Periodontal diseases primarily stem from the buildup of dental plaque, a sticky film of bacteria that forms on teeth. Effective oral hygiene practices are crucial for removing food particles and preventing plaque accumulation. To address this, we organized a seminar focused on mechanical methods of plaque control, with a particular emphasis on the use of powered toothbrushes.

The seminar aimed to educate participants on the latest advancements and techniques in mechanical plaque removal. Topics covered included the effectiveness of various powered toothbrushes compared to manual brushing, proper brushing techniques, and the importance of consistent oral hygiene practices. Experts discussed the benefits of powered toothbrushes, such as their ability to deliver more consistent and thorough cleaning, reduce gingivitis, and improve overall oral health. Demonstrations and hands-on sessions allowed participants to experience these tools firsthand. By providing this knowledge, the seminar sought to enhance participants' understanding of effective plaque control methods and promote better oral health practices.

MODERN DAY ORAL HYGIENE AIDS

Date: 5th august 2019

No. of Participants: 40

The primary cause of periodontal diseases is dental plaque, a biofilm that adheres to the surfaces of teeth and prostheses. Effective oral hygiene is essential to remove food particles and plaque, thus preventing the onset and progression of these diseases. To address this critical aspect of dental care, we organized a seminar focused on mechanical methods of plaque control, with a special emphasis on powered toothbrushes.

The seminar provided a comprehensive overview of the latest mechanical techniques for plaque removal. It highlighted the advantages of powered toothbrushes over traditional manual brushing, including their superior ability to dislodge plaque and debris through high-frequency bristle movements. Experts discussed various features of powered toothbrushes, such as oscillating-rotating and sonic technologies, which enhance cleaning efficiency and reduce the risk of gum disease. Additionally, practical demonstrations and hands-on sessions allowed participants to experience the effectiveness of these tools firsthand. The seminar aimed to equip attendees with the knowledge and skills needed to improve their oral hygiene practices, ultimately promoting better oral health outcomes.

REPORT

CLINICAL INNOVATION IN BONDING DENTISTRY

Date: 29th august 2019

No. of Participants : 81

Dentine-bonding agents are crucial in the effective sealing and retention of resin composite restorations, which are becoming increasingly popular among dentists globally. These agents ensure that restorations adhere securely to the tooth structure, enhancing their durability and functionality. Bonding agents are also integral to minimally invasive dentistry, a practice that aims to preserve as much natural tooth structure as possible while providing effective treatments.

The lecture provided an in-depth exploration of bonding materials and techniques, offering valuable insights into the latest advancements in this field. Attendees learned about the different types of dentine-bonding agents, their properties, and their specific applications in various clinical scenarios. The presentation covered both the theoretical aspects and practical considerations, such as the proper preparation of the tooth surface and the precise application of bonding agents to achieve optimal results. This informative session aimed to equip dental professionals with the knowledge and skills necessary to improve the quality and longevity of their resin composite restorations, thereby enhancing patient outcomes.

GRAFT LESS IMPLANTOLOGY

In the edentulous maxilla, several grafting options are available, including autografts, allografts, and heterografts. Each type offers distinct advantages and is chosen based on the patient's specific needs and clinical situation. To address the complexities of these procedures, we organized a workshop focused on sinus grafting and alternative implant placement methods without using bone grafts.

The workshop provided comprehensive information about the various complications associated with sinus grafting, such as infection, graft failure, and sinus membrane perforation. Experts discussed strategies to mitigate these risks and enhance the success rates of sinus grafting procedures. Additionally, the workshop explored innovative techniques for placing implants in the maxilla without the need for bone grafts. These methods include the use of zygomatic implants and short implants, which can provide stable and long-lasting solutions for patients with insufficient bone volume.

Through detailed lectures, case studies, and hands-on sessions, participants gained valuable insights into advanced grafting and implant techniques. This knowledge aims to improve clinical outcomes and expand the range of treatment options available to dental professionals working with edentulous maxilla cases.
